QUILTCON

presented by THE MODERN QUILT GUILD®

Modern Traditionalism

Hillary Quilton

Individual Member

This quilt is a personal social commentary, documenting this period in American political history. I chose traditional blocks with girl, daughter, mother, grandmother, sister, aunt, and lady in their title, likewise blocks with Chicago, Illinois, New York, Washington, Little Rock, and Arkansas for their connection to Hillary Clinton. These classic blocks were then reinterpreted and recolored in an eclectic manner. There is a subtle juxtaposition between the Hillary fabric and the pink pinup-girl fabric which references the spectrum of women in the real world. The Hillary fabric and burgundy political newsprint were purchased in Bangkok, Thailand approximately nine years ago.

Techniques: Machine pieced, Machine quilted without a frame - the quilt moved under the stationary needle

U.S. CONGRESS

PRESS RELEASE

LSKS | LEVINE SULLIVAN
KOCHE & SCHULZ, LLP

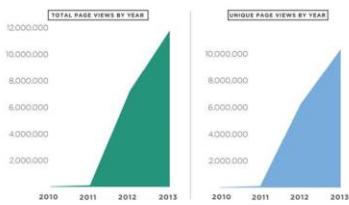

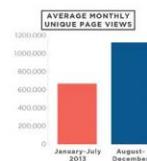

2013 IN REVIEW

In 2013, as taking action to address climate change grew ever more pressing, ThinkProgress took the opportunity of a mainstream media outlet and significantly increased its coverage of climate change and the impacts it's having on the U.S. and the world. We relaunched to a brand new, redesigned site in late July, and our staff has grown to include three editors, six writers and a full-time social media expert. Our writers have travelled throughout the country to report on crucial climate stories, all with the goal of highlighting the influence of climate change on people's lives, exposing the individuals and organizations that obstruct climate action, and putting pressure on the decision makers by elevating climate change into political conversations.

TRAFFIC

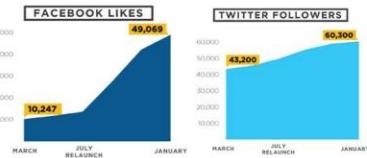

Since the relaunch, we've expanded our reach tremendously:

Our average monthly unique page views grew from about 670,000 per month in the first seven months of 2013 to more than 1,124,000 per month after our July 28 relaunch.

SOCIAL MEDIA

We've also grown our social media accounts substantially. Our Facebook and Twitter accounts now have more than 110,000 followers collectively.

BIG STORIES

In addition to stepping up our up-to-the-minute coverage of the day's big climate and energy news, the new and improved Climate Progress has bolstered our content with long form, originally reported feature stories that tell the story of people struggling against fossil fuels, dealing with climate change, and taking action to prepare for the future.

WHY HABITAT FOR HUMANITY'S NEWEST HOMEOWNER MIGHT NEVER PAY AN ELECTRICITY BILL

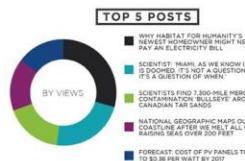

One of Climate Progress's most widely shared and viewed articles of 2013 told the story of how Habitat for Humanity is reducing their impact on climate change and helping underprivileged families at the same time. The article received 141,448 total page views and was shared more than 23,400 times on Facebook, proving that readers are hungry for positive news on how people are making a difference in the fight against climate change.

AFTER THE FLOOD: HOW CLIMATE CHANGE CHANGED ONE COLORADO COMMUNITY FOREVER

As catastrophic floods hit Colorado in September, Climate Progress traveled there to talk to the scientists studying the role of climate change in the state's increasingly unpredictable fire, the emergency responders dealing with the aftermath, and the local fire chief who watched his community burn in the devastating Four Mile Canyon Fire, only to be hit with massive flooding just three years later.

THE INSIDE STORY OF THE PLAN TO SEND HAZARDOUS MATERIALS STRAIGHT THROUGH THE HEART OF D.C.

Climate Progress was one of the first to report on the proposal to run uncovered freight trains filled with crude oil and other hazardous materials through the backyards of families, children, and seniors who live less than one mile from the U.S. Capitol building. This heavily-investigated story examined the health and environmental risks of this project and the fears residents have about the likelihood of spills so close to their homes.

"I understand there could be political advantages to weighing in on Keystone. But given her former role as secretary of state and having been part of the Keystone process, she believes that weighing in now could be disruptive to the process and not responsible to do. She is just in a different situation than other candidates. Having the experience of being a former Secretary of State distinguishes her and her candidacy, but it comes with responsibilities that at times can limit her. But we know that the experience is well worth whatever price she may pay politically."

Inbox \(9046\)

"In a clear example of people power overcoming the special interests, Hillary Clinton joined with thousands of Americans calling on President Obama to reject the Keystone XL pipeline in favor of building an American economy powered by clean energy. The urgency of the climate crisis, coupled with a grassroots movement of students, advocates, businesspeople, and voters, has taken what was once a done deal and now placed this pipeline out of reach. Hillary Clinton's evolution on this issue is a reflection of where the American people are — now, every Democrat running to lead our country must oppose Keystone XL because of this new political reality. I commend Hillary Clinton for standing with millions of Americans—particularly young Americans—calling for climate action and I urge President Obama to decisively reject the Keystone XL pipeline once and for all. In addition, we look forward to hearing more details about Hillary Clinton's clean energy framework to power our nation with more than 50% clean energy by 2030."

CREDO Statement on Clinton's Opposition to Keystone XL

FYI - CREDO released the following statement in response to Secretary Hillary Clinton announcing today in Iowa that she opposes the Keystone XL pipeline:

"If Hillary Clinton can go from being 'inclined to approve' Keystone XL to 'I oppose' in five years, then surely Barack Obama can go from more than six years of indecision to outright rejection," said CREDO Director of Climate Campaigns Elijah Zarlin. "As someone who says he is committed to action on climate, it is long past time for President Obama to reject Keystone XL."

O'MALLEY ON KEYSTONE: Leadership is About Forging, Not Following Public Opinion

BALTIMORE, MD---Governor Martin O'Malley released the following statement on Secretary Clinton's change of heart on the Keystone Pipeline:

"On issue after issue--marriage equality, drivers licenses for undocumented immigrants, children fleeing violence in Central America, the Syrian refugee crisis, and now the Keystone Pipeline, Secretary Clinton has followed--not forged--public opinion. Leadership is about stating where you stand on critical issues, regardless of how they poll or focus group.

"The American people want a President who will lead—not just someone who will tell them what they want to hear. On many of these issues, I staked out positions and got things done—even when they were politically unpopular. That's what's at stake in this election: the difference between conviction and convenience, and the gulf between actions and words."

"As a senator who has vigorously opposed the Keystone pipeline from the beginning, I am glad that Secretary Clinton finally has made a decision and I welcome her opposition to the pipeline. Clearly it would be absurd to encourage the extraction and transportation of some of the dirtiest fossil fuel on the planet."

Under attack, team Sanders puts out chart explaining pay-fors. But no mention of health care, his biggest plan.

Sen. Sanders has proposed a $1 trillion plan to rebuild our crumbling infrastructure and put 13 million Americans to work.	other offshore tax havens, which the Congressional Research Services estimates may currently create losses that approach $100 billion annually, and other loopholes.
College for All Sen. Sanders has proposed making public colleges and universities tuition-free and substantially reducing student debt, in a plan that would cost about $75 billion a year .	Paid for by imposing a tax on Wall Street speculators that would generate about $300 billion in revenue .
Expand and Extend Social Security Sen. Sanders has proposed expanding Social Security and extending the solvency of this program until 2065.	Paid for by lifting the cap on taxable income above $250,000 so that the wealthy pay the same percentage of their income into Social Security as working people.
Youth Jobs Program Sen. Sanders has proposed a $5.5 billion youth jobs program to create 1 million jobs for disadvantaged young Americans.	Paid for by ending the carried interest loophole that allows billionaire hedge fund managers to pay a lower tax rate than nurses and truck drivers.
Paid Family and Medical Leave Sen. Sanders has proposed at least 12 weeks of paid family and medical leave to all workers.	Paid for by a payroll tax that would total $1.61 a week for the typical American worker. According to Sen. Gillibrand's office, this would be "a self-sufficient program that would not add to the federal budget."
Protect Pensions Sen. Sanders has introduced a plan to prevent cuts to the pensions of over 1.5 million Americans.	Paid for by closing two tax loopholes that allow the wealthy to avoid taxes on money they inherit and expensive artwork they collect.

GREENBERG QUINLAN ROSNER RESEARCH

No significant difference in support for message when trade and union included

Now I am going to read you something DEMOCRATIC candidates are saying about the country and what needs to be done to make things better. Please tell me whether the statement makes you feel much more positive about DEMOCRATIC candidates, somewhat more positive, a little more positive, or not at all positive.

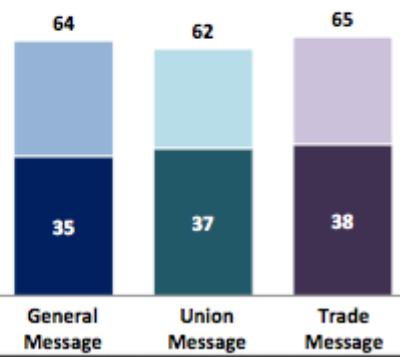

Level the Playing Field Economic Message

We need a country that works for the middle class, not one governed by trickle-down economics. Families and small businesses are struggling, yet CEOs and billionaires are using their lobbyists to write the rules so government works for them. It's time to rewrite the rules for all Americans. Let's start by reducing the toxic influence of money in politics. Then we can ensure those at the top pay their fair share of taxes, rein in the risky practices of big banks, invest in infrastructure, and guarantee women receive equal pay

[+ UNION: and give working people more of a say and higher incomes by guaranteeing the right to form unions]

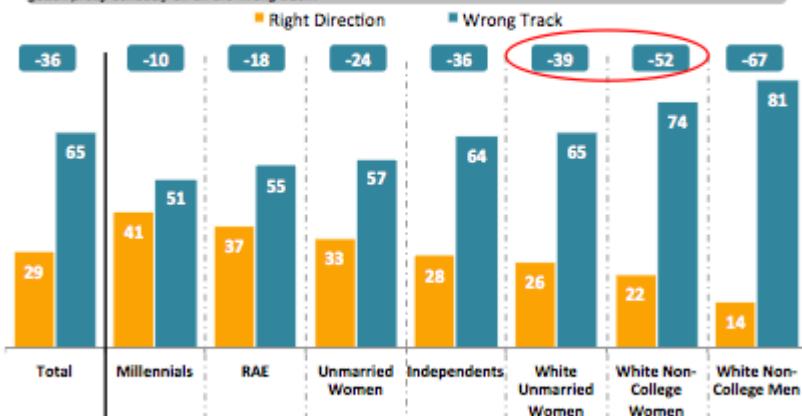

[+ TRADE: stop any new trade deals with other countries that undermine American jobs and income]. Let's level the playing field so we can grow the middle class and America again.

▪ Much more positive

And white working class and unmarried women want change

2013 IN REVIEW

In 2013, as taking action to address climate change grew ever more important, ClimateProgress.org took the opposite approach of most mainstream media outlets and significantly increased its coverage of climate change and the impacts it's having on the U.S. and the world. We relaunched to a brand new, redesigned site in late July, and our staff has grown to include three editors, six writers and a full-time social media expert. Our writers have travelled throughout the country to report on crucial climate stories, all with the goal of highlighting the influence of climate change on people's lives, exposing the individuals and organizations that obstruct climate action, and putting pressure on the decision makers by elevating climate change into political conversations.

TRAFFIC

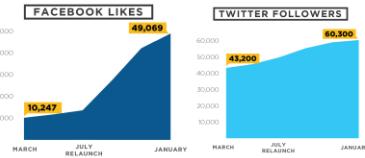

Since the relaunch, we've expanded our reach tremendously.

Our average monthly unique page views grew from about 670,000 per month in the first seven months of 2013 to more than 1,124,000 per month after our July 28 relaunch.

SOCIAL MEDIA

We've also grown our social media accounts substantially. Our Facebook and Twitter accounts now have more than 110,000 followers collectively.

BIG STORIES

In addition to stepping up our up-to-the-minute coverage of the day's big climate and energy news, the new and improved Climate Progress has bolstered our content with long form, originally reported feature stories that tell the story of people struggling against fossil fuels, dealing with climate change, and taking action to prepare for the future.

WHY HABITAT FOR HUMANITY'S NEWEST HOMEOWNER MIGHT NEVER PAY AN ELECTRICITY BILL

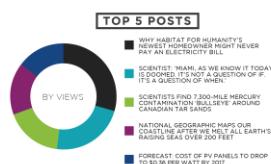

One of Climate Progress's most widely shared and viewed articles of 2013 told the story of how Habitat for Humanity is reducing their impact on climate change and helping underprivileged families at the same time. The article received 141,448 total page views and was shared more than 23,400 times on Facebook, proving that readers are hungry for positive news on how people are making a difference in the fight against climate change.

AFTER THE FLOOD: HOW CLIMATE CHANGE CHANGED ONE COLORADO COMMUNITY FOREVER

As catastrophic floods hit Colorado in September, Climate Progress traveled there to tell the story of the community of Four Mile Canyon. The state's increasingly unpredictable fire, the emergency responders dealing with the aftermath, and the local fire chief who watched his community burn in the devastating Four Mile Canyon Fire, only to be hit with massive flooding just three years later.

THE INSIDE STORY OF THE PLAN TO SEND HAZARDOUS MATERIALS STRAIGHT THROUGH THE HEART OF D.C.

Climate Progress was one of the first to report on the proposal to run uncovered freight trains filled with crude oil and other hazardous materials through the backyards of families, children, and seniors who live less than one mile from the U.S. Capitol building. This heavily-investigated story examined the health and environmental risks of this project and the fears residents have about the likelihood of spills so close to their homes.

But Hillary credibility attack tempered greatly by hearing her talk about money reform first

Now I'm going to read you some things that REPUBLICAN critics are saying about Hillary Clinton's plans to reform money and politics. Please tell me whether it raises very serious doubts, serious doubts, minor doubts, or no real doubts in your own mind about Hillary Clinton?

(UNBELIEVABLE) Hillary Clinton is not believable on reform. She talks about reforming the way campaigns are funded to clean up Washington, but she has already raised millions from CEO's, big banks and special interests and her Super PAC has raised over 97 million dollars to get her elected. Clinton is just another part of the Washington Cartel pushing big government that works for special interests and not the middle class.

Skepticism about Clinton's credibility, but still resilient

Now I'm going to read you some things that REPUBLICAN critics are saying about Hillary Clinton's plans to reform money and politics. Please tell me whether it raises very serious doubts, serious doubts, minor doubts, or no real doubts in your own mind about Hillary Clinton?

(UNBELIEVABLE) Hillary Clinton is not believable on reform. She talks about reforming the way campaigns are funded to clean up Washington, but she has already raised millions from CEO's, big banks and special interests and her Super PAC has raised over 97 million dollars to get her elected. Clinton is just another part of the Washington Cartel pushing big government that works for special interests and not the middle class.

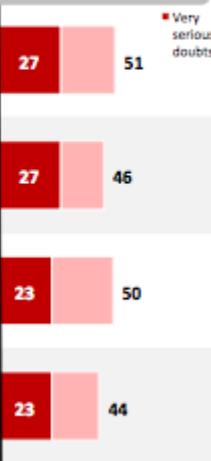

(PART OF PROBLEM) Hillary Clinton says she is the solution to our democracy and will represent every day Americans but as First Lady, she and her husband rented out the Lincoln Bedroom to high dollar donors. And as Secretary of State, she approved weapons sales to foreign governments who donated to the Clinton Foundation. Hillary Clinton is part of the problem in Washington.

(MONEY FOR BETTER THINGS) Hillary Clinton's proposal will cost taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars each election; this money could go to help pay to secure Social Security, pay for badly needed road repair or help provide better health care to our veterans. Instead, it will be given to politicians to run campaign ads. We have better things to do with our money.

(WALL STREET CRONY) Hillary Clinton is part of the corrupt alliance between Washington and Wall Street. As U.S. Senator from New York, Hillary Clinton broke records for raising money from big Wall Street banks. Since leaving office, Clinton has made herself a multi-millionaire giving paid speeches to corporate CEOs and the big banks. With friends like that, we cannot trust her to clean up Washington.

Money reform even more powerful in the hands of other Democratic candidates

Now I am going to read you some things [Hillary Clinton / a DEMOCRATIC candidate] is saying about money and politics. Please tell me whether the statement makes you feel much more positive about Hillary Clinton / the DEMOCRATIC candidate, somewhat more positive, a little more positive, or not at all positive.

Democratic Money Reform Message

We need a government of, by, and for all Americans, not just for the billionaires and special interests. I am running [for president] so that working families can have their voices heard in Washington and have a fair chance to get ahead again. We must end the secret, unaccountable money that is corrupting our political system. [On my first day in office, I'll sign an executive order to require / We can start by requiring] that federal contractors disclose the money they are spending to influence politics. [I will appoint Supreme Court justices / We need a Supreme Court] that values the right to vote over the right of billionaires to buy elections and a push for a Constitutional Amendment to overturn Citizens United. And, we must fight for a new way of funding campaigns that amplifies the voices of everyday Americans by incentivizing small donations, not the big money that dominates our elections today. Together, with your help, we can make democracy work for all of us
